When you fold your hands, baby Louise, Your hands, like a fairy's so tiny and fair, With a pretty, ismocent, saint-like air, Are you trying to think of some angel taught prayer, You learned above, baby Louise?

I'm in love with you, baby Louise!— Why! you never raise your beautiful head! Some day, little one, your check will grow red With a flush of delight, to hear the words said, "I love you," buby Louise.

Do you bear me, bady Louise? have sung your praises for nearly an hour, and your lashes keep drooping lower and lower, and—you"re gone to aleep, like a weary Flower, Ungrateful baby Louise!

PURE UNION.

There are two hearts, whose movements thrill In unison so closely sweet! That, pulse to pulse, responsive still, That both must heave—or cease to beat.

There are two souls, whose equal flow
In gentle streams so calmly run,
That when they part—they part—ah, no!
They can not part—those souls are one!

A man seldom affects to despise the world, unless the world is regardless of him. You can not manufacture a conscience out of expediency.

To forgive provocations is one of the proofs of a great mind. Every age, like a dead field, has to be plowed and sowed anew.

The pleasure of doing good is the only one that never wears out.

There are eight hundred and thirty-three students now at Oberlin College. The world asks not, how a man acquired his property? the only question is, has he got it? A man must have confidence in himself if he expects the world to have any in him.

A room at the National Hotel, Louisville, occupied by Mr. H. A. Craig, from Nolin, and another gentieman, was entered on Tuesday night. The thief succeeded in carrying off $550 and a silver watch valued at $50. It is thought that when they retired at night they neglected locking their door. The thief has not yet been caught.

A dispatch from Fond du Lac brings intelli-gence of a fire in Oshkosh involving the de-struction of seventy-five stores and buildings, and the loss $200,000 to $300,000—nearly equivalent, we should suppose, to the destruc-tion of the town. A later dispatch from Osh-kosh, giving full particulars, puts the loss at half a million of dollars.—Chicago Tribuse, 12th.

We learn that the man killed on the Cincinnati and Chicago road, on Tuesday, was named Wiley White, a citizen of Madison county. He was intoxicated, and his son was trying to get him home. As the train came in sight, he threatened the boy, and lay down on the track. A number of hogs gathered around. The engineer blew his whistle to scare the hogs, and did not per-ceive the man until the train had struck

There is a capital story told of Judge John A. Corwin, of Urbana, Champaign county, which never yet got into the newspapers. Corwin transacted considerable business at one time for an individual somewhat noted in that county, named Col. Deavers. Deavers, by the way, served in the war of 1812, where he won immortal honors, and the brevet title of Colonel by the fearless manner in which he drove an ox team in the Quarter Master's department. The Colonel to this day tells the most surprising stories of his exploite in that war. It must be known, too, that all the stories he tells are equally surprising, and, in fact, his imagination at all times is so active and so serviceable, he can dispense with truth without the slightest inconvenies. Herely without the slightest inconvenience.

without the slightest inconvenience. Beside that, he was never known to pay a debt. Judge Corwin, having done business for Deavers several years, signified one day his desire to receive some equivalent for it.

"Weil," returned Deavers, "you'd ought to be paid, Judge, that's a fact. The account has been running for some time, and I meant to 've paid it long ago. I havn't any money, but anything I've got on my farm you can have and welcome. Got lots of apples."

"How many apples have you got?" asked the Judge, ready to each at anything.

"I've got eight hundred bushels, Judge."

"All right," said the Judge, "I'll take them all."

After promising to employ all his teams, and bring them on the following day—they were all piled up in his orchard, he said—Deavers took his leave. The Judge saw nothing more of him for

The Judge saw bothing more of him for several week, and than meeting him by accident, he exclaimed impatiently:
"It thought, Deavers, you were going to bring me those apples?"
"So I was," said Deavers, conciliatingly; "so I was, but the fact is, that little pennyrial bull of mine, broke into the orehard that night, and all every one of them up!"

The idea of a buil eating eight hundred bushels of apples in one night, "took" the Judge, and he forgave the debt.
